

I currently receive DSL over my telephone line. In a semi-rural area, the laying of separate cable would make it impossible for us to receive DSL service except at exorbitant rates. Because of the high prices we pay monthly for 2 phone lines, I consider that over the years we have contributed significantly to the cost of providing the phone lines and should be able to receive alternate services over them.